

Constraints added and atomic-set features removed

Each point represents one successfully processed feature model. Net additions are simplified minus original

